

Pet Salvation - Aquabrush

A keen dog walker has launched a new portable cleaning wash and brush product for groomers and pet owners.

After the recession took one businessman to the brink of disaster, he found inspiration in his pet and went on to invent a versatile new cleaning product for pets.

Keen walker and dog owner, James Koumis, 43, from Potters Bar in Hertfordshire, invented, developed and is now manufacturing the 'Aquabrush.'

He said: "My family and I do a lot of walking and as a result mud is always getting into the car and house. I looked around for suitable cleaning products which were portable, easy to clean and eco friendly but couldn't find anything suitable. I then thought up my idea and after three years of hard work, I developed the Aquabrush."

Aquabrush is formed from a set of double action bristles fitted with a 'pop up action' nozzle which when opened allows the jet of water from the bottle to flow out and then can be closed again by clicking the nozzle back down. It is easy to clean as there are no electronics and is eco-friendly, durable and re-useable.

Its thread size fits with any standard water bottle with a 28mm neck, it jets and seals itself so all that is needed is water.

"It has been especially useful during the muddy autumn and winter months and as well as keeping the house and car clean, my dog has been benefitting from immaculate paws and a bit of a dog pedicure," said James.

The Aquabrush comes in four different vibrant colours with a bag and micro cloth.

"The brush is soft enough yet suitable for any paw size and will reduce any unwanted muddy prints in the salon, car, house and is also a great accessory for brushing and grooming cats and dogs," concluded James.

The Aquabrush has just been launched and is starting to be sold at garden centres throughout the UK but can also be bought through these websites: www.jkscreations.com or directly from the manufacturers at www.etree.biz or www.aquabrush.co.uk

Aquabrush retails for £14.99. Salon discounts available.

Tried & Tested

We found the Aquabrush was particularly useful when you want to clean your dog off after a walk before he or she gets back in the car. The ability to spray water whilst brushing results in a much cleaner finish than if you simply use a towel alone. It would make a good product for grooming salons to retail. Our score is 8/10.
